Phonetic Alphabet

Print the following pages on thin card and cut into pairs of small and large cards. Different ways of pairing the cards can be devised depending on the ability of those involved. If the backs of the cards are not marked, one might play Pelmanism which adds memory skills to learning the Phonetic Alphabet.

Playing Pelmanism

This simple and popular memory game for two or more people is also known as Concentration or Memory.

The cards are thoroughly mixed and spread face down on the table. The cards should not overlap and can be arranged in a regular pattern or spread irregularly as desired.

Players take turns to turn any two cards face up (one small and one large). If they match, you take these two cards, store them in front of you and take another turn. If they do not match, you turn them face down, without changing their position in the layout and then it is the next player's turn.

Play continues until all the cards from the layout have been taken as matched pairs. The player with most cards is the winner.
